2. Are the stars Eternal?

How long have the stars been in existence? 15b. years. I think not, the big bang did not happen. That's a mans theory, to back up the expanding universe and the loss of anti-matter?

Our universe's have been in existence since the beginning.

When was the beginning? An eternity ago. No one knows. That's why its called ETERNITY, if you knew the beginning it wouldn't be eternal.

Gen 1:1

1 In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

The beginning is eternal. The beginning is impossible to fathom or conceive. Why?

Because our universe is but a drop in the ocean that has no end or depth. How? First think, does space have an end? Logically no. It can't end, if so what is at the end of space? And then what is at the end of it? So therefore space has no end. Correct!

Our universe would be but a drop in space at that rate. So how can matter only exist in one drop of space? It cant. Matter if its in one drop.( and we are proof that there is one drop, our universe).....Has to be every where else. Correct!

With this in mind, the term multi-verse becomes but a bucket of water in an endless ocean.

My conclusion is: there is no limit to matter/universes/life.

With this in mind. Why would God create the stars; (All matter) in one day in one afternoon, between igniting the sun and positioning the moon in orbit and setting up the planets. Our solar system.

My conclusion is: Moses asked the question in the tent of tabernacles, regarding creation. "Hello, what about the stars" to which God answered, "well, I made them ALSO"

Gen 1:16-18

16 And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: (the sun: via gravitational collapse and the moon) He made the stars also. (The word ALSO, is an after thought)

17 And God set them (the sun and the moon, possibly the 7 planets as well ) in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth,

18 And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

Now to conceive that God was talking of our solar system is normal (correct) as all through "creation week" He speaks of OUR world our solar system. To base the creation of the entire multi-verses on a word ALSO..... is wrong. Specially when six days were dedicated on our solar system, and mostly on a watery planet, that He hovered over.

(Gen 1:2)

God did create ALL matter! But that's another story.
